

We Just Tried Communism.... As Expected, It Hurt The Poor The Most

We start with data from Japan.

Last year when COVID started, some Japanese schools stayed open while others closed. As a result, they could compare the spread of COVID between open schools and closed schools.

Care to venture a guess on the results?

Correct..... No difference whatsoever was made by the closing of schools.

Take that Dr. Fauci.

The Government's rental and foreclosure moratorium shows what happens when the government shuts down capitalism even for a short amount of time.

As result of being screwed by the government. Landlords were forced to provide services to tenants while receiving no income. Many landlords have taken their rental properties off the market.

Landlords that are continuing to rent are now classifying rental properties as "speculative investments" when they were always thought of as "safe, secure investments."

Therefore, we are seeing many landlords increase the price of rent 50% or more, to guard against future moratoriums and government action.

And who gets hurt as result of this? As always... Minorities and the Poor.

The same people that are always told that capitalism is the reason that they cannot get ahead, now live in fear of NOT having a roof over their head, because capitalism was shoved aside for a pandemic.

Add to that, the president causing the price of gas to double which increases the cost of goods for everyone.

Remember there are no solar 18 wheelers or locomotive engines. They still use fossil fuels.

Nothing is exempt from the increases caused by fuel prices. Everything from wheat to TVs must be transported. Therefore, the cost of everything explodes.

Capitalism may not be perfect, but it sure stands the test of time.
