

Why Does No One Want the Job of Republican Speaker?

Can Insurance Be TOO Good?

In my role as a Medicare insurance agent, seniors that want the best coverage purchase Medigap plans usually plan F or plan G. One of the selling points is you do not need authorizations or referrals to see other doctors or to have any tests or procedures done.

What I have noticed is.... seniors with top-of-the-line plans spend a lot of time going to various types of doctors for tests and procedures. Often they tell me that the doctor did not do anything, yet, the billing statements show a ton of work.

Is it possible that without a watchdog usually known as a primary care physician, medical providers take advantage of seniors with Cadillac plans and order unnecessary visits, testing, and procedures just to pad the bill?

I am starting to recommend that the senior schedule an appointment with a "Primary Care Physician" for a second opinion of whether or not all the work being done is really necessary.

Just putting it out there.

Remember what I wrote last week? It will take 3 or 4 days and the Speaker's race will get resolved and you should pay no attention?. Of course many of you watched every vote like it mattered.

The question you should be asking is: "Why do people like Jim Jordan not want to be the Speaker?" The answer is: As Judiciary Chairman he has a long career. As Speaker, he could be pushed out in one month.

Democrats keep their Speakers.... Republicans depose them.

Don't toss out the Speaker unless you have another one ready willing and able that can get the GOP vote.

Amazing to read the comments people leave over the Speaker race on how they feel about so many different members of Congress.

Keep this in mind: "Unless you live in the district or send them a large check, they could not care less what you think."

Every story on Saturday was how Trump maneuvered behind the scenes to make the Speaker deal. This is because in addition to weakening the Speaker, the Republican holdouts castrated Trump.

The most MAGA Congresspeople shrugged off Trump's endorsement of McCarthy.

When they tried to walk it back Saturday morning, the political damage was already done. Trump does not have as much control over the party as the media would have you believe.

California faces a $24 Billion budget deficit after tax revenues are $41 billion lower than expected. Are any Republican surprised?

Not in our wildest dreams

In October if you asked what are the odds of Republicans controlling the Palm Beach County Commission? The correct answer would have been ZERO.

Democrats had a 6-1 majority. In the November election, two Republican newcomers beat their Democrat opponents, making it 4-3 Democrats.

One of the Democrat commissioners supported Gov. DeSantis early, and while he was booed by Republicans when he appeared on stage, the governor rewarded him by putting him in charge of Florida Highway Safety. This created a vacancy on the County Commission and the governor appointed my good friend, Michael Barnett, Chair of the Republican Party of Palm Beach County to the seat, flipping the County Commission to a Republican majority of 4-3.

I'm constantly reminding my readers that political moves are complicated and we need to cut the knee-jerk reactions.
