

How to Win Every Election

I am writing this column on Saturday night because of the Yom Kippur holiday Sunday and Monday.

I will keep it short, and mostly ask questions. I look forward to reading your responses.

Ted Cruz agrees that Democrats will take Joe Biden off the ballot. He says that Michelle Obama will get the nomination because Democrats will not object to bypassing the voters and putting her on the ballot.

Questions for My Readers:

How much of his own money has Donald Trump committed to personally invest in the 2024 campaign?

Has President Trump made any indication that he will spend his own money on behalf of Senate and House Republicans?

Does Trump have the liquidity to finance a billion-dollar campaign?

I was recently asked: "What does today's Republican Party stand for?"
What is your response?

Right to Life is a very upset about Trump's pronouncement that he will work with Democrats to try to fashion a compromise on abortion. Where is your line in the sand that should he cross, you will no longer support President Trump?

With a four-seat majority, how does pushing out Speaker McCarthy help the Republican cause?

The federal judge in the January 6th case has a very serious recusal motion. Most times they are denied, but in this case the judge in sentencing some J-6 defendants specifically brought Trump into it and insinuated that Trump should have been charged.

The judge's statements call into question her ability to conduct a fair trial.

How to Win Every Election in the Country?

Today, the one issue everyone agrees on is immigration. Democra governors and mayors have had enough.

At the State of the Union, presidents point to individuals in the gallery and boast about their achievements. Making it personal is very powerful.

Every day the housing courts hear cases of people being dispossessed, foreclosed or evicted and often due to circumstances that they cannot control. The breadwinner died. Someone became seriously ill or loss of a job.

In each case they contact some agency who is charged with helping people in their situation, but the resources to help are not there.

It we had teams recording and interviewing these people and pointing to the fact that the illegals Biden brings over the border are given so much money and other resources, while Americans are living on the street or in cars, we would have a powerful story to tell. To win elections: Find a victim, especially a sympathetic one, and cry at their story.

Democrats have been doing this for decades. It's time we played the same game. Winning is everything in politics.

Trump promises to testify under oath in the document case. His lawyers will have a coronary. Why? Because Trump would then be cross-examined on every statement he has made especially since his 2015 campaign. The sole purpose? Point out lies and inconsistencies. This cross-examination could take an entire week.

Alan's Meme of the Week:

The day Al Gore was born there were 7,000 polar bears on earth.

Today only 26,000 remain.
