

Iran is Failing and Falling

Another Dear Abby-style letter: A wife is struggling at home, and her husband says, "Tell me what you need." She can't answer because she genuinely doesn't know. This highlights how men and women often think differently. He wants a simple, straightforward answer, but she's incapable of giving him clear instructions. That's the essence of Men Are from Mars, Women Are from Venus. Yet she can easily talk to her friends and list everything he does wrong—without ever telling him what she actually needs. Counseling can help bridge that gap.

Conservatives who claim the government can be overthrown by a militia don't understand how tanks and fighter jets work. Conservatives counter: But your government almost was disrupted on January 6th by unarmed people who simply walked into a building.

It's very simple for Republicans to win the affordability argument. Show prices under Biden—everything skyrocketed—and then show prices under Trump—everything flattened or went down. That's a campaign message everyone will embrace. It's straightforward, and it will win if Republicans can finally get on the same page.

Commercial:
"Democrats.....You can't afford them."

The ICE agent who shot the woman in Minnesota. I believe he will probably be indicted, the case will likely be removed to federal court, and immunities will apply and it will be dismissed.. Let's see if I got this right.

Liberals want to turn the Minnesota shooting of the terrorist into a national issue, but it won't stick. Too many networks are already reporting the truth: The agent was standing in front of the car while she was accelerating, and there's a dent in the vehicle. The media will try to hype the story, but it will fade after a couple of days.

The joke among Iranians is that nobody knows where the Ayatollah is—except Israel. I think it is a matter of just days until the Ayatollah's are expelled or Trump attacks or both.

Many of my readers have access to a Congressman, a Senator, or even someone who can talk to the President. This message needs to get up the chain. For years, people have been saying Obamacare is bad, but they can't explain why—and the subsidies are too hard to explain. Here's the simple truth that must be said: A $10,000 deductible (or $20,000 for a family) is not health insurance. That's the message. Please spread it around—I hope to see someone using it in the next week or two.

Why won't the Minnesota protests turn violent? Because a certain ethnic group known for burning down cities isn't protesting—they're not involved.

It seems the Vice President of Venezuela (now acting as President) has decided that playing nice with the U.S. is better than being captured by them. She's implementing many reforms that sound a lot like democracy.

Little girl: Why didn't God stop the shootings? Little boy: How could He?....He's not allowed in school anymore.

I think there's a GoFundMe for the Minnesota terrorist who was killed. The federal government should immediately sue her family, her wife, and the entire gang under conspiracy charges—and try to seize that money and more.

When students say they support socialism, the next question should be: How much do you expect to earn in your first job? They give you a number. Okay—so under socialism, 60% of that goes to the government. Are you happy now?

"Hands off the Ayatollah:" The liberals' latest protest slogan.

A woman in MN impedes an ICE agent, so he takes her wallet and car keys and drives off. She's screaming, "Somebody do something! Call the cops! Somebody do something!" Hilarious.

The problem with the Minnesota case is it will be tried by a jury in Minnesota, which is very liberal. The best bet is for the federal government to find a conspiracy that crossed state lines and then bring the case in a different state.

Nicaragua is freeing political prisoners as a result of pressure from the Trump Administration. Can he get a third term?

It's ironic that the angriest people on television are named: Whoopi, Sunni, and Joy.

Meme of the Week:
A lesbian couple wants to have a baby, so they ask their next-door neighbor to help. They say they can do it the old-fashioned way if he wants. It's been 2 months and he doesn't have the heart to tell them he had a vasectomy three years ago.

Bonus Meme of the Week:
A man brings his best buddy home for dinner unannounced. His wife starts screaming at him while his friend just sits there and listens. Wife: My hair isn't done, the house is a mess, the dishes aren't washed, I'm still in my pajamas, and I can't be bothered to cook tonight! What the hell did you bring him home for? Husband: Because he's thinking of getting married, and I promised him a demo.
